United States Court of Appeals FILED

For the Seventh Circuit

Chicago, Illinois 60604 NOTICE OF ISSUANCE OF MANDATE 2000 OCT -9 PM 1: L. I

DATE: October 8, 2008

TO:

Stephen R. Ludwig

United States District Court Northern District of Indiana

Room 102

South Bend Division 102 Federal Building South Bend, IN 46601

USA

FROM: Clerk of the Court

RE:

07-1426

Pavey, Christopher v. Conley, Patrick 03 C 662, Robert L. Miller, Chief Judge

Herewith is the mandate of this court in this appeal, along with the Bill of Costs, if any. A certified copy of the opinion/order of the court and judgment, if any, and any direction as to costs shall constitute the mandate.

[] No record filed [X] Original record on appeal consisting of: TO BE RETURNED AT LATER DATE: ENCLOSED: Volumes of pleadings Volumes of loose pleadings [2] [] [] Volumes of transcripts] Volumes of exhibits Volumes of depositions [In Camera material Other Record being retained for use in Appeal No.

Copies of this notice sent to:

Counsel of record

[] United States Marshal

[] United States Probation Office

NOTE TO COUNSEL:

If any physical and large documentary exhibits have been filed in the above-entitled cause, they are to be withdrawn ten days from the date of this notice. Exhibits not withdrawn during this period will be disposed of.

Please acknowledge receipt of these documents on the enclosed copy of this notice.

Received above mandate and record, if any, from the Clerk, U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit.

case 3:03-cv-00662-RLM -CAN document 116 filed 10/09/08 page 2 of 7

United States Court of Appeals

For the Seventh Circuit Chicago, Illinois 60604

JUDGMENT - WITH ORAL ARGUMENT

Date: June 5, 2008

BEFORE:

RICHARD A. POSNER, Circuit Judge

KENNETH F. RIPPLE, Circuit Judge

DANIEL A. MANION, Circuit Judge

No. 07-1426

CHRISTOPHER R. PAVEY,

Plaintiff - Appellee

v.

PATRICK CONLEY, ROBERT WATTS, LAURENCE GROTT, et al.,
Defendants - Appellants

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana, South Bend Division No. 03 C 662, Robert L. Miller, Chief Judge

The judgment of the District Court is REVERSED, with costs, and REMANDED, in accordance with the decision of this court entered on this date.

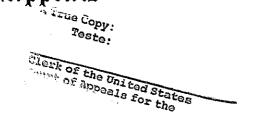

(1061 - 110393)

case 3:03-cv-00662-RLM -CAN document 116 filed 10/09/08 page 3 of 7

United States Court of Appeals

CERTIFIED COPY For the Seventh Circuit

Chicago, Illinois 60604

BILL OF COSTS

Date: October 8	3,	2008
-----------------	----	------

Taxed in favor of: Appellants - Shepard, Casiano, Javadis Beaty, Laurence Grott, Robert Watts, Patrick Conley

Appeal No. 07-1426

CHRISTOPHER R. PAVEY,

Plaintiff - Appellee

v.

PATRICK CONLEY, ROBERT WATTS, LAURENCE GROTT, et al., Defendants - Appellants

> Docketed on: 2/26/07 Appellate Court No.: 07-1426

Short Caption: Pavey, Christopher v. Conley, Patrick District Court Judge: Robert L. Miller

District Court No.: 03 C 662

		Cost Of Each Item
1:	For docketing a case on appeal or review or docketing any other proceeding
2.	For reproduction of any record or paper, per page
3.	Reproduction of briefs:	$ 601.20
		Total	$ 601.20

(1077 - 081992)

CERTIFIED COPY

United States Court of Appeals For the Seventh Circuit

No. 07-1426

CHRISTOPHER PAVEY,

Plaintiff-Appellee,

v.

PATRICK CONLEY, et al.,

Defendants-Appellants.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Northern District of Indiana, South Bend Division. No. 3:03-CV-0662-RLM-CAN—Robert L. Miller, Jr., Chief Judge.

ARGUED APRIL 9, 2008—DECIDED JUNE 5, 2008

Before POSNER, RIPPLE, and MANION, Circuit Judges.

POSNER, Circuit Judge. The question presented by this interlocutory appeal under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b) is whether a prisoner plaintiff in a suit for damages governed by the Prison Litigation Reform Act is entitled by the Seventh Amendment to a jury trial on any debatable factual issues relating to the defense of failure to exhaust administrative remedies. The district court answered yes.

The prisoner filed this suit under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 against guards who he claimed had used excessive force in removing him from his cell, as a result breaking his arm. In edies should be resolved by the judge at the outset of the to the defense of failure to exhaust administrative remneeded in order to be able to press a grievance effectively. sumably prevented him from obtaining the facts that he investigation of the incident was conducted, which prehe was transferred to another prison before a promised handed and it was his left arm that was broken; and that he could not prepare the grievance himself, as he is leftthat he had been unable to exhaust those remedies because authorities. He countered with an affidavit which stated cause he hadn't filed a timely grievance with the prison had failed to exhaust his administrative remedies betheir answer the defendants claimed that the prisoner to convene an advisory jury. litigation without a jury unless of course the judge decides The defendants respond that any factual issues relating § 1997e(a). The Supreme Court has held that the failure ment," properly raised not by a motion for summary that a failure to exhaust remedies is a "matter in abateheld that because previous Ninth Circuit cases had held 315 F.3d 1108, 1119-20 (9th Cir. 2003), the Ninth Circui with the duty to exhaust are presented: in Wyatt v. Terhune, genuine issues of material fact concerning compliance the question whether there is a right to a jury trial if tive remedies. Only one appellate court has weighed in on plaintiff need not plead that he exhausted his administrato satisfy this requirement is an affirmative defense, istrative remedies as are available are exhausted." 42 U.S.C. to prison conditions . . . by a prisoner . . . until such adminaction shall be brought [under federal law] with respect judgment but by a motion under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b) (an Jones v. Bock, 549 U.S. 199 (2007), which means that the The Prison Litigation Reform Act provides that "no

2 No. 07-1426

No. 07-1426

"unenumerated Rule 12(b) motion," the court called it), the judge must decide exhaustion even if that requires him to make findings of fact.

supplemental jurisdiction to the state courts, see 28 F.3d 1320, 1331-32 (11th Cir. 2004); cf. Majors v. Engelbrecht, even if the parties do not make an issue of them—and to of a litigation is triable to a jury as a matter of right, even are contestable factual questions bearing on the decision. E.g., Ambrosia Coal & Construction Co. v. Pages Morales, 368 motions to abstain in favor of another court, or an agency. tional in the sense of requiring the judge to decide them or venue, e.g., Hyatt Int'l Corp. v. Coco, 302 F.3d 707, 712-13 issues relating to the defense of lack of personal jurisdiction v. General Motors Acceptance Corp., 298 U.S. 178, 188-90 if so the issues are resolved by the judge. E.g., McNutt factual issues that may be genuinely debatable, but even ample is subject-matter jurisdiction; often it turns on meaning of the Seventh Amendment. The clearest exif it is a suit at law (rather than in equity) within the right that not every factual issue that arises in the course in the answer to the complaint. Yet the defendants are tain defenses, such as lack of subject-matter or personal anything about who finds the facts. It just permits certhough we agree with its result. Rule 12(b) does not say U.S.C. § 1367, is likewise made by the judge even if there 149 F.3d 709, 711 (7th Cir. 1998). A decision to relinquish (D.C. Cir. 2000)—though these defenses are not jurisdic-(7th Cir. 2002); Marra v. Papandreou, 216 F.3d 1119, 1122 132, 134-35 (7th Cir. 1996). The same is true of factual (1936); Prizevoits v. Indiana Bell Telephone Co., 76 F.3d jurisdiction, to be presented by motion rather than only The Ninth Circuit's approach is not persuasive,

The generalization that emerges from these examples and others that might be given is that juries do not decide

trative remedies

No. 07-1426

a verdict finding that the prisoner had failed to exhaust, an was a trial on the merits: a jury trial to decide exhaustion, case one could envision a series of jury trials before there than shunting it to another forum. If the defense is reif successfully interposed ends the litigation rather issues that juries decide. A statute of limitations defense distinguishes the issue of exhaustion from deadline administrative proceeding, the resumption of the litigabottom rung of the administrative ladder; and in such a failure to exhaust is that the prisoner must go back to the remedies. But in many cases the only consequence of a sustained, he would no longer have any administrative prisoner inexcusably failed to file a timely grievance be this case, should the defendants' contention that the it is to decide the case or the prison authorities are to. In of exhaustion is resolved, the court cannot know whether cases, not issues of judicial traffic control. Until the issue jected, the case proceeds in the court in which it is filed. tion, and another jury trial on failure to exhaust. That what forum a dispute is to be resolved in. Juries decide

A peculiarity of this case is a possible overlap between the factual issues relating to exhaustion and those relating to the merits of the excessive-force claim. The broken arm is of course germane to both, and while the fact that it was broken is conceded, the severity of the break could well be an issue common to both the allegedly inexcusable failure to exhaust and the excessiveness of the force that caused the break. By analogy to the cases that require that claims at law be decided before equitable claims when both types of claim are presented, so that the judge's decision on the latter does not preclude or otherwise affect the jury's determination of the former, e.g., Beacon Theatres, Inc. v. Westover, 359 U.S. 500, 508-11 (1959); Williams Electronics

Games, Inc. v. Garrity, 366 F.3d 569, 577-78 (7th Cir. 2004), we think that any finding that the judge makes, relating to exhaustion, that might affect the merits may be reexamined by the jury if—and only after—the prisoner overcomes the exhaustion defense and the case proceeds to the merits. The alternative of trying the merits before exhaustion, as under the Beacon Theatres line of cases, is unsatisfactory in the present setting because it would thwart Congress's effort to bar trials of prisoner cases in which the prisoner has failed to exhaust his administrative remedies. Jones v. Bock, supra; Porter v. Nussle, 534 U.S. 516, 523-25 (2002); Pozo v. McCaughtry, 286 F.3d 1022, 1025 (7th Cir. 2002). A jury might decide the merits of a case that should never have gotten to the merits stage because the judge should have found that the prisoner had failed to exhaust his adminispretrial discovery, and if necessary a trial, on the merits; and exhaust; or (c) the failure to exhaust was the prisoner's plaintiff has unexhausted remedies, and so he must go judge determines that the prisoner has properly exhausted remedies), in which event he will be allowed to go back prison officials prevent a prisoner from exhausting his back and exhaust; (b) or, although he has no unexhausted tive remedies, he will then determine whether (a) the mines that the prisoner did not exhaust his administraexhaustion) he deems appropriate. (2) If the judge deterwhatever discovery relating to exhaustion (and only to his administrative remedies, the case will proceed to fault, in which event the case is over. (3) If and when the remedies, the failure to exhaust was innocent (as where judge conducts a hearing on exhaustion and permits tion is contested is therefore as follows: (1) The district The sequence to be followed in a case in which exhausthis opinion.

No. 07-1426

and if there is a jury trial, the jury will make all necessary findings of fact without being bound by (or even informed of) any of the findings made by the district judge in determining that the prisoner had exhausted his administrative remedies.

We emphasize that discovery with respect to the merits must not be begun until the issue of exhaustion is resolved. If merits discovery is allowed to begin before that resolution, the statutory goal of sparing federal courts the burden of prisoner litigation until and unless the prisoner has exhausted his administrative remedies will be thwarted.

REVERSED AND REMANDED.

case is remanded for further proceedings consistent with

The judgment of the district court is reversed and the